Thank you very much for your letter of 10 October which was brought to my attention upon my return to the office from a little trip out of the country.

I greatly appreciate your kindness in writing to me as you did and am indeed sorry that I missed seeing you while you were in Washington. I hope that it will not be too long before we can get together.

With kindest personal regards.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Dulles:

I was very much looking forward to the pleasure of seeing you during my visit in the United States, but I was sorry to learn that you were away and you would not have returned before my departure.

I am sure you know how much I would have been pleased had I had the opportunity of seeing you during this visit.

Failing what I had already anticipated, I, therefore, have to content myself with these few lines in expressing to you my best wishes and very cordial regards.

Sincerely,

The Honorable
Mr. Allen Dulles
Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Washington 25, D. C.
